BIG FAIR CLOSES

MAYSVILLE TOBACCO AND CORN FAIR A GREAT SUCCESS—ALMOST 5,000 IN ATTENDANCE SATURDAY

Much Rivalry in Rewarding of Premiums—Plans Under Way For Bigger and Better Fair Next Year.

Maysville's first Tobacco Fair and Corn Show has passed into history, leaving hundreds of people in the city and county greatly pleased with the three days' festivities. The total number of paid admissions for the three days will run considerably over 6,000 and then add those who had complimentary tickets the number will reach the 7,500 attendance mark.

From the moment of the opening of the fair, Thursday noon until its close near midnight no one that had seen the Liberty in all of its glory ever said anything that would hinder others from coming. They told each other how good it was and what a great success it was. Undoubtedly it was one of the greatest things ever pulled off in this city.

A great deal of the credit for the success of the fair is due to Superintendent T. P. Boone, Mr. Boone seemed to be everywhere at once and had every detail completely mastered. His assistants, Mr. A. M. January and Mr. T. E. Foley also worked untiringly for the success of the fair and their efforts were crowned with success.

Perhaps one of the things that made the fair such a splendid success was the way in which the merchants of the city took hold of the booths and decorated them. Every booth in the building, 46 in number, were taken and all were decorated to the best possible advantage. A stranger coming inside the building could tell as soon as he had made the rounds of the booths just what the main business of the city was, for there was a representation of almost every industry in the corporation. Every booth in the building was worthy of a prize. A great deal of time was spent by the judges when making the awards and the results seemed to meet the approval of all persons present. The Maysville Cotton Mills and the State National Bank won first and second prizes respectively for the best booth display and Barkley's Shoe Store and Giesel and Conrad won the first and second prizes respectively for the best decorated booths.

The Germantown Band was present the last two days of the fair and delighted the large crowds with their repertoire of selections. The playing of the Maysville Bluegrass Concert Band also received much attention. The attractions, Lucy and Costello and Savoy's acrobatic Bulldogs, greatly pleased the onlookers. The latter show was the main attraction of the fair and always a large crowd watched the wonderful performance of the animals.

That the fair is a permanent institution in this city is now assured after the way persons have requested its continuance. The way the Maysville people have supported the fair this year shows that they will be doubly interested next year and will give even greater support. What knockers are left are those that did not see the inside of the Liberty Warehouse. Had they done so, all knocking would have forever been dispensed.

Although the prizes were awarded on Friday in every department except the tobacco the winners were not officially announced until Saturday afternoon. The ribbons were placed as soon as possible. The following is the list of prize winners:

DEDICATION

Of the New Washington Consolidated School Will Be Held on Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 30.

The formal dedication of the new Washington Consolidated School will be held on Thursday of this week, Thanksgiving Day. The exercises will last all day, beginning at 10 o'clock.

The Washington Consolidated School was begun during the early part of the summer and it was hoped that it would be finished by the opening of school the First of September. However labor was very scarce and the contractors could not finish the building soon. During the past two weeks they have been working night and day to get the building finished in time to allow for the dedication on Thursday. Some little work remains to be done but this will be completed before Thursday.

The school is on the Murphyville Pike about two hundred yards beyond the town of Washington. It is built of brick and is one of the best and most complete in the county if not the state. It is surrounded by a 20-acre campus. The building is three stories high, the third being a large auditorium. The first floor will be occupied by the grades, the second by the High School. This makes the third large consolidated school, the others being Maysville and Minerva.

The dedication exercises will be free to all Thursday. Dinner will be served in the building at a nominal cost by the ladies of the district, who are expecting to get quite a neat sum from it. Several noted state educators will be present for the day to make addresses.

All persons interested in the consolidated school movement are invited to be present at the exercises Thanksgiving Day. The residents in the Washington district are especially invited to attend.

PROMINENT MAN DIES

Marshall, one of the most prominent and popular citizens of Mason county, died at his home near Lewisburg Saturday night at 6 o'clock, after an extended illness of tuberculosis of the spine. JUDGE HUGHES CONGRATULATES MR. WILSON

Mr. Hughes, having been satisfied that the official count in California left no doubt as to the re-election of President Wilson, Wednesday night telegraphed him his congratulations and best wishes for a successful administration.

In his expression of good wishes Judges Hughes voices the sentiment of every patriotic American. No man, no matter what his political convictions may be, would have evil befall his country merely to gratify his dislike for an individual or because he disagreed politically with the party for the moment in control of the machinery of government.

During the campaign just closed The Leader did all that it could to assist in the election of Judge Hughes, but it cast no reflections whatever either upon the personal integrity or the patriotism of President Wilson or any of his supporters.

Many of the opposition newspapers went so far as to charge that President Wilson, in his negotiations with the railroad brotherhoods, acted with a deliberate purpose to manufacture political capital out of the crisis with which he and the Nation were confronted and that his primary intention was to win the votes of workingmen throughout the country with a promise of a universal eight-hour law. The Leader did not join this assault upon the integrity of the President. It believed then, as it believes now, that in this particular instance the President merely displayed the same lack of firmness and decision which characterized his conduct in some other crises, national and international, and which we fear he will continue to exhibit during the coming four years.

No reasonable man doubts that President Wilson is sincere and honest, and no one has cause to believe that he would under any circumstances be disloyal to the best interests of the people of this Nation, but he cannot well change his nature, and if he fails during the next four years to overcome the faults for which he has been so freely criticised by leading men and conservative newspapers of all shades of political belief, the country must do the best it can to overcome the inevitable consequences of a changeable and capricious course of conduct in the White House.

It is possible, of course, and let us hope it may come true, that in his second term as President Mr. Wilson may summon to the cabinet table men of notable ability and strong character, and that he will more studiously follow the examples set by some of his illustrious predecessors and be in some degree guided by the counsels of his chosen advisors.

* * * *

It cannot be said that the election settled anything except that the country, prosperous and well-fed, was content to pursue the old familiar and easy process of "letting well enough alone," trusting to luck and the future to take care of things generally.

It is of small moment to the country at large, or to the average man, who is resident of the United States, or which party is in power if the affairs of government are wisely and economically administered and the policies pursued are designed to and actually promote the social and commercial welfare of the whole people.

It is therefore a source of regret that the conditions which grew out of the war in Europe interfered with a fair and square try-out of some of the principles of government laid down by successive Democratic platforms and enacted into law by the Congress which came into power with the election of 1912.

Except for the war the country would by this time have had an opportunity to observe the effects of the free trade tendencies of the Democratic party as exemplified in the Underwood act. Had the manufacturing industries of the country, under normal conditions survived the first shock of the charges made in the customs dues by the Underwood act and there had been a reaction which would have demonstrated that the Republican policy of protection was fallacious and not now necessary to the country's welfare, the re-election of President Wilson might well have been anticipated and would not have given many voters cause for apprehension.

Unless the Democratic statesmen during the ensuing four years abandon their traditional free trade convictions, the people of the United States should have full opportunity to study the relative merits and consequences of the divergent theories of revenue and taxation advocated by the two leading political parties and which more than anything else, mark the line of cleavage between them.

Should the war in Europe be prolonged, however, for two or three years, there will be small chance for an actual test of the Underwood act and the next campaign, in the absence of some unexpected issue sporadic in its nature, will be little different from the one recently ended.—Lexington Leader.

OUR VULNERABLE TRADE POSITION

We live too much in the present. While economists here and there are urging the United States to take thought of the morrow, the nation is rushing headlong to new high peaks of consumption, production, and extravagance. Many accept prosperity as an inherent right which needs no safeguards. The war has given us advantages which too many people will not admit that peace can take away. Prices are so high that cost accounting systems are thrown overboard. What matters an increase of 30 per cent. in the expenses of production when the buyers are paying perhaps 100 per cent. more?

Europe will not always be at war, and when peace returns the nations now out of the running will again be competitors for the trade that the United States has almost monopolized. They will have every incentive to produce as cheaply as possible in order to export to the last penny what is not absolutely required at home. The loss of men in battle—terrible as it has been may seriously lessen the output of field and factory, for women have been recruited to take the places of men, and industry is co-ordinated as never before. Our trade balance in September was $384,719,000, but two years ago it was only $16,341,000, and for the five months preceding that September we imported more than we exported. It is folly to believe that we can permanently hold any considerable portion of our present wonderful foreign trade unless we prepare to meet the situation that will confront us within a very few years, and possibly within a few months, after the end of the great war.—The Annalist.

The opinion of ex-President Taft that the result of the Wilson Philippine policy will rise up in the future to plague the American people is shared by a great many of his countrymen.—Omaha Bee.

TERMS

FOR WITHDRAWAL OF UNITED STATES TROOPS SIGNED

Protocol Must Be Approved by Both Governments Before Effective; Other Meetings Arranged—U. S. Commissioners Doubtful of Success—Further Problems Ahead If Agreement Is Ratified.

Atlantic City, N. J., November 24—A protocol, providing for the conditional withdrawal of the American troops now in Chihuahua, Mexico, and for the military control for the border, with supplemental stipulation that the United States troops shall be sent into Mexico in pursuit of bandits at any time the American government deems it necessary, was signed here today by the members of the Mexican-American joint commission.

One of the official copies was taken by Alberto J. Pani, of the Mexican commission, who left here tonight for New York, whence he will start Monday for Queretaro, where he will submit it to General Venustiano Carranza for his approval. The other copy will be delivered to the American government by Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane, chairman of the American commission, who left here today for Washington.

Other Problems Held Up

If the protocol is ratified by the two governments the commission will convene again December 8, to resume discussion of other questions affecting the two countries, especially those relating to the protection of the lives and property of Americans and other foreigners in Mexico. If ratification by either government is withheld, the work of the commission will be declared at an end.

Following is a paraphrase of the agreement to which the last signature was affixed at 3:49 o'clock this afternoon:

"First. The American troops now in Chihuahua, commanded by General John J. Pershing, shall be withdrawn within forty days from the approval of the protocol by the respective governments, provided that within that time the condition in that part of Mexico has not become such as to endanger the American border. In such event the time shall be extended.

"Second. The Mexican armies shall patrol the Mexican side of the border and the American army, the American side, but this shall not preclude co-operation between the two forces to preserve peace upon the border.

"Third. It shall be left to the commanding officers of the armies on the border of both nations to enter into such arrangements for co-operation in operation against Mexican bandits whenever it is possible.

Supplemental Agreement Signed

The right of the American government to send troops across the border in pursuit of bandits was not incorporated in the protocol, but was made the subject of a supplemental memorandum. The Mexicans had contended earnestly against signing any agreement in which they appeared to sanction what they termed the violation of their national territory. It was the agreement of the Americans finally to content themselves with stating the attitude of the United States in a separate memorandum that induced the Mexicans to sign the agreement.

It became known today that the first request of the Mexicans for a race was made several days ago. They desire to submit to General Carranza all the facts in the case and to obtain from him advice as to the course they should take. The Americans opposed such action, contending that further delay was inadvisable. Yesterday the insistence of the Mexicans resulted in consideration of the suggestion and today the discussion was resumed with all the commissioners present.

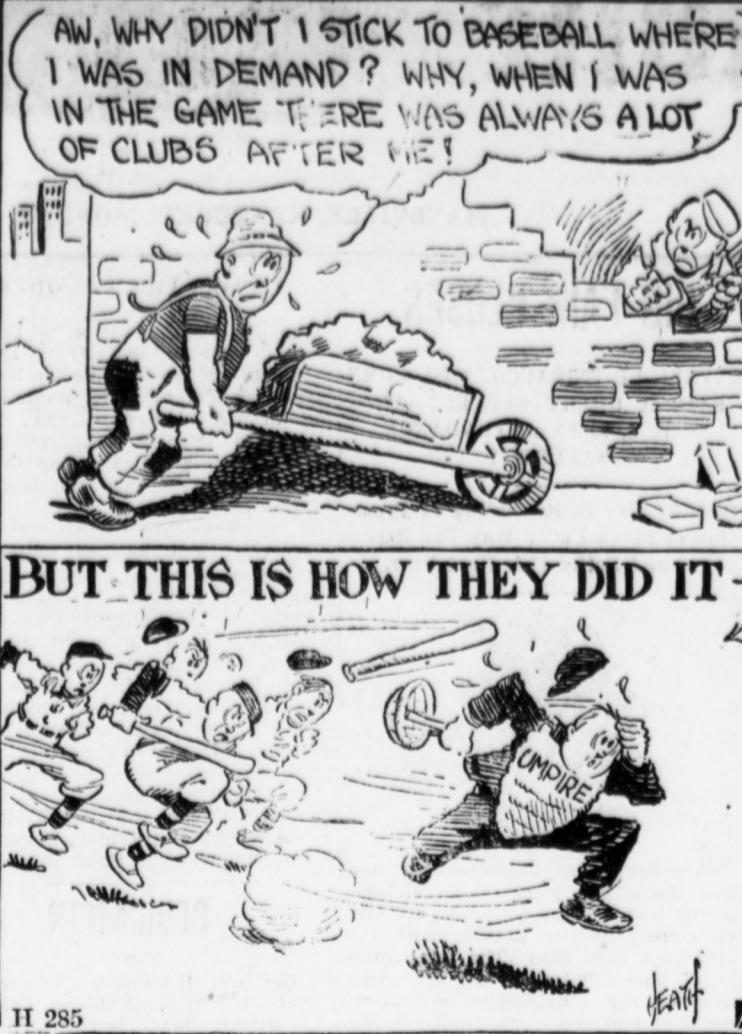

The Mexicans were not willing to sign but the Americans succeeded in convincing them that inasmuch as the correspondence which has led to the creation of the commission provided for the submission of the agreement to their respective governments for approval valuable time could be saved by taking the signed protocol to Carranza.

Mexicans to Replace U. S. Troops

The clause providing for the withdrawal of General Pershing's forces states that should the bandits in Chihuahua appear near the border in American troops acting independently or in conjunction with the Mexican forces, may disperse them. In such case the time for their withdrawal shall be extended.

The Mexican commissioners agreed that, as the American troops are withdrawn, Mexican troops shall be moved forward to occupy the territory vacated. The disposition of the Mexican troops shall be left to the Mexican commanders. General Pershing is to have charge of the plans of withdrawal and the right to use the railroad to Juarez for the transportation of his troops and movement of his supplies, if he desires.

The Mexicans contended earnestly for the incorporation in the protocol of a clause providing that if troops were sent across the line in pursuit of bandits they should be moved only to certain distances, that they should comprise only certain arms of service, and include only a specified number of men; that they should be kept in the country only a certain time and that they must be moved only in certain regions. To all these arguments the Americans were firm in their insistence that there must be no limitations.

The Mexican commissioners were representatives, but it was manifest they were not unduly optimistic. Throughout the conference that began September 4, the Mexicans have insisted the first chief and his official family would not agree to any violation of Mexican territory. If the agreement is ratified there will begin a long consideration of the remaining questions that the American government regards as vital to the whole restoration of family relations with Mexico. These include taxes, threats to confiscate property, sanitary conditions and claims. Such problems are regarded by the Americans as essentially basic and necessary to an understanding.

EARLY DECISION IS UP TO COURT

Preliminary Obstacle to Appeal on Eight-Hour Law Are Removed—Agreement Reached—Case Decided by Judge Hook to Be Taken to Highest Tribunal.

Kansas City, Mo., November 24—All preliminary obstacles to a decision by the Supreme Court of the United States on the Adamson law were wiped out today. The only possible hitch in the proceedings now lies in the question whether the highest court will advance the case and can render a decision by January 1, when the law is scheduled to go into effect.

The case of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and of other railroads which applies to Judge John C. Pollock, in the United States District Court at Kansas City, Kan., were, by agreement of counsel for the government and railroads, postponed until after a decision by the Supreme Court.

An announcement was made by Frank Hagerman, special assistant to the Attorney General, and Walker D. Hines, chairman of the committee of railroads, postponed until after a decision by the Supreme Court.

The case which goes to the upper tribunal is that of the Missouri, Oklahoma and Gulf railroad, hurriedly heard here Wednesday by Judge William C. Hook, who held that the law was unconstitutional.

An appeal was immediately taken.

States Right Again

Washington, November 24—A new turn to the argument that States rights would be invaded if the Federal government had sole power to regulate and control interstate carriers, was given today before the Joint Congressional Committee investigating transportation problems, by A. P. Thom, counsel for the railway executive's advisory committee.

Mr. Thom declared that the vesting of such exclusive power in the hands of a Federal regulating body instead of invading the rights of the States would protect them. He based his conclusion on many instances in which the effect of actions by State Railway Commissions has been seen to interfere with commerce in neighboring States.

Emphasis was laid upon the situation which has followed the recent Interstate Commerce Commission order for realignment of rates throughout the Southeast under the long and short haul clause of the railroad rate law. The effectiveness of the orders has been suspended, Mr. Thom said, while the Georgia State Railroad Commission has for six months examined them, and the benefits the commission expected to extend to that entire section of the country have been held in abeyance. He spoke also of the Shreveport, Louisiana, rate case as one of the decided by the Interstate Commerce Commission involving a clash between the Federal Commission and the Texas State Commission over interstate and intrastate rates.

Mr. Thom said the frames of the constitution gave the right to regulate commerce among the States to Congress because the history of the colonies showed that unwise, unfair and even dangerous methods resulted from attempts to encourage the commerce of individual colonies at the expense of neighbors.

Speaking of the difficulties of financing the railroads, Mr. Thom dwelt upon how difficult it may be for a carrier to get money even when the markets are favorable if it is necessary to have security issues passed upon by one or more State commissions.

HUMANITY APPEALS AGAINST DEPORTATION

Washington, November 24—Another appeal from the Belgian government for American influence against the deportation of Belgians to work in Germany was handed to the State Department today by Minister Havenith. It was in the form of an instruction to the minister declaring the situation was becoming more terrible every day, and directing him to beg the Secretary of State to "urge the German government to consider the consequences of the crime against humanity committed in their names."

Charge Grew, of the American embassy at Berlin, already is making informal representations at the foreign office in behalf of the Belgians. It can not be learned that the State Department has yet decided upon a line of action in the event that the German reply is unfavorable.

The Shamrock was adopted as the national emblem of Ireland because St. Patrick selected it in order to explain to the Irish the doctrine of the Trinity.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS SICK?

Many Maysville People Have Kept Well By Keeping Their Kidneys Well.

The first symptom of kidney trouble may be only a slight pain in the back, a feeling of stiffness or soreness in the loins, or some annoying irregularity of the urinary passages. Urine is often discolored and perhaps sediment gathers upon standing. Next may come a dull, throbbing backache, sharp, knife-like pains, headaches, dizziness and in many cases, lameness when arising in the morning. No one can afford to delay until these troubles become serious. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills, the tried and tested kidney remedy that has won the praise of thousands. Maysville readers should find convincing proof of merit in the following statement. It's from a resident of this city.

A. Sorries, locksmith, Aberdeen, O., says: "The action of my kidneys was irregular and the kidney secretions contained sediment. I had backache and when stooping, it was hard for me to straighten up. Colds always settled on my kidneys. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they stopped the trouble and my kidneys became strong."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Sorries had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

PARIS MAN HAS BIG TIME IN DANVILLE

(Danville Advocate)

A freak set between Grocerman Charles P. Cecil, Jr., of Danville, and Mr. Watson W. Judy, of Paris, representative of the Armour Packing Company, made over the result of the recent election, caused more genuine merriment than has been witnessed in this city in the past several months. Mr. Cecil took the Hughes end of the betting, while Mr. Judy espoused the cause of Wilson. The loser was to push the other from the postoffice down through Main street to Second street in a wheelbarrow, so Mr. Judy had the ride, amid the greatest excitement and the applause of a perfect multitude of excited on-lookers. The whole affair was enjoyed by all and a general good feeling prevailed the bettors as well as the spectators. It really caused more excitement than has been seen in Danville in many months past.

Mr. Judy is well-known in Maysville, making a weekly trip to this city in the interest of his firm.
